

ANTG Secures Landmark UK Export Partnership with Curaleaf

Australian Natural Therapeutics Group (ANTG) has announced a major step in its international expansion, signing a landmark distribution agreement with Curaleaf to supply its premium Australian medicinal cannabis products into the United Kingdom.

The UK medical cannabis market is the second largest in Europe, forecast to exceed AUD $480 million in 2025, with more than 60,000 active patients. Patient numbers are expected to nearly double over the next three years, driving demand for reliable, GMP-certified supply.

Curaleaf operates the UK's largest EU-GMP medical cannabis facility and an integrated European distribution network. Under the agreement, ANTG's Australian-grown products will be provided to UK patients through established clinical and pharmacy channels.

Matt Cantelo, CEO of ANTG, said "This marks a significant milestone, both for ANTG and for Australia's medicinal cannabis sector. Entering the UK market reflects confidence in Australian-grown, research-driven cannabinoid medicines, and our commitment to ensuring patients have access to consistent, high-quality products supported by clinical standards."

ANTG's reputation for producing stable chemovars under rigorous GMP conditions was a key factor in the partnership, aligning both companies' focus on quality, traceability, and patient safety.

This agreement reinforces Australia's increasing role in the global medical cannabis supply chain and positions ANTG at the forefront of delivering clinically aligned cannabinoid medicines to international markets.

About Australian Natural Therapeutics Group (ANTG)

Headquartered in Byron Bay, Australian Natural Therapeutics Group (ANTG) is a vertically integrated medicinal cannabis company with operations across cultivation, GMP manufacturing, research, and international distribution. Australia's leading medicinal cannabis exporter, ANTG delivers high-quality, evidence-informed cannabinoid medicines to patients and markets worldwide.

Media Enquiries

Director of Communications
helen.kapalos@antg.com.au